Job Title:	GP's for the International GP Programme
Number of posts:	Shortage of medical staff in the UK
Full job description:
We are currently collaborating with our Partners and recruiting for the International GP Programme here in the UK-NHS. The program is a training program and mainly exists in 3 stages: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The observership stage lasts about 3 to 6 months (approx.), the trainee-GP will shadow a local GP and will get lots of support to get familiar with the NHS system. - The supervised placement lasts about 6 months, the trainee-GP works as a GP but will get some supervision. - After this, you will start working as an independent GP. Salaries: Observership stage: £3,000 net per month (paid through a bursary, no taxes payable on this) + London weighting. Supervised stage: £3,500 net per month + London weighting. Once an independent GP, the salary is around 68,000-70,000 gross per year. Benefits of the program:

1. There are a few incentives for candidates – first of all, there is a lot of support and learning in place.
2. It is quite hard to find your own way and supervised placement in the UK, and the program will make things a lot easier.
3. Financial support in place with a relocation package of up to 8,500 pounds

Relocation assistance includes:

1. Traveling is booked for you, including temporary accommodation for your first arrival in London.
2. Set up a home search.
3. Ship your belongings over etc.

You will also get help towards indemnity insurance and can have their GMC registration costs reimbursed. In turn for all this financial support, the NHS wants a commitment of a minimum of 3 years.
